

a part of the leadership structure of the terrorist group, and they were meeting with him.

In 2008, our FBI director handed one of his Director's Community Leadership Awards to Imam Yahya Hendi, who had testified during al-Arian's trial as a defense witness. Hendi had served as a moderator during a 2000 fundraiser for the Benevolence International Foundation, which was shut down in November 2002 by the U.S. Government and designated a terrorist organization for its support of al Qaeda and a number of other Islamic terrorist groups.

An FBI agent testified during the Holy Land Foundation trial that CAIR was a front for the terrorist group Hamas, and the FBI was publicly forced to sever its ties with CAIR. They had all this information, and yet they continued to, as their own information says, partner with CAIR, though CAIR—they knew we had evidence—was partnering with terrorists.

In September of 2010, known Hamas cleric, Mustapha, who was a part of a 6-week FBI Citizen's Academy, was treated to guided tours at the top-secret National Counterterrorism Center, FBI headquarters, and the FBI Academy at Quantico. Mustapha's participation in the FBI program came after he was personally named a coconspirator in the Holy Land Foundation trial and after his appointment as a Muslim chaplain to the Illinois State Police had been revoked. Illinois had already figured out what he was and what he believed before he was given tours of our top-secret National Counterterrorism Center.

Time magazine featured a profile of Mohamed Majid, imam of the All Dulles Area Muslim Society—or they call themselves ADAMS for short. I'm sure John Adams appreciates that. He is the current president of the Islamic Society of North America, which also was a named coconspirator to fund terrorism in the Holy Land Foundation trial. And both the district court and the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals examined the record and said there is plenty of evidence here to support their being named specifically as supporters of terrorism.

But in November 2005, Majid was awarded by the FBI for the imam's cooperation in the war on terror, claiming, "Majid regularly tips off the Bureau." But in a letter to the ADAMS center community the very next day, Majid told his mosque Members he did no such thing. Majid made clear that he never reported on anyone in the Muslim community and that his relationship with the FBI was one-sided, and the outreach meetings, "are solely to create avenues to work with law enforcement to preserve our civil liberties and civil rights." Majid has met with top DOJ officials urging the criminalization of criticism of Islam. It's okay to burn a Bible; it's okay to criticize Christianity and Judaism; and police allowed people to scream and cuss obscenities about God during a prayer at a Tea Party, but it's not okay to be critical of these people.

It's time to wake up. It's time to set political correctness aside. And Mr. Speaker, I would ask that this letter, signed by 22,000 Americans begging us to end political correctness that risks our liberty, be made a matter of the RECORD.

With that, Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.
